As an extra service we offer you the possibility to consult provisional information regarding your orders directly in ALOORA. This extra service is free of charge and can give you access (where applicable) to all the data from our laboratories regarding your company and to create your own orders.

In order to use our service, this form needs to be filled in completely. By signing this form you give your approval to the following conditions:

1. For reasons of data protection, after AGROLAB has received this completed and signed form, you will receive a temporary password by e-mail for your first login.
2. Once access has been approved, changes to your account can only be applied by your local Customer Service or the appointed Superuser in your company. Please take care not to give your password to other persons under any circumstances. Should your password become public then urgently contact your local Customer Service to block the access and assign a new password.
3. We urge you to note that only reports released by our Customer Service and indicated as ready are validated. We therefore cannot accept liability for the accuracy of the provisional findings you can access.
4. AGROLAB cannot be held responsible for any changes in your account implemented by your Superuser.
